

USB Controllers

Posted by Garner - 2010/07/22 21:31

Hey All,

I enjoy making mashups with different styles of music.

Tear out Breaks & Classical

Tear out Breaks & 80's retro

Tear out Breaks & pop

etc etc etc

What I was wondering is what USB midi controller would you recommend that enables you to have very finely tuned pitch control to .01 like a cdj800/1000?

In addition, in the studio would you recommend Ableton or Fruity loops to do the simple task of beat matching two completely different stylez of music as alluded to above?

Thank you in advance.

=====

Re: USB Controllers

Posted by twinkdogg - 2010/08/19 18:38

I uses this for DJing:

<http://www.hercules.com/us/DJ-Music/bdd/p/62/dj-console-rmx/> with Virtual DJ for mixing software. I know you can do pitch control up to .01 in VDJ if you want. I don't like while mixing live though.

Ableton is great for just doing straight up digital mixes. I havne't used the nw versions of Fruity Loops yet so i can't speak for it.

=====