CK Decksterhaven has been a club kid for more than half his lifetime and he's old as hell so you know he's got the experience! He first started out going to the legendary First Avenue nightclub for the Sunday Night Dance Party. It was here at the house that Prince built, that CK gained his first exposure to a wider variety of dance music than what he heard on the radio.

He found his calling in electronic music when he heard Sasha play at New York's legendary Twilo and it changed his life. This sent him looking for more when he returned home to the Twin Cities. Since that time he has listened attentively to growing talents and ever changing sound of his major influences; Sasha and Digweed, Christopher Lawrence, Sander Kleinenberg, Gabriel and Dresden, and more recently Sandra Collins and James Zabiela. Taking their example, Haven has developed a style which pulls from the deeper side of house, trance, breaks, and even a little techno to create a sound with aggressive basslines layered under ethereal melodies.

Tune in to hear him drop an hour of deep and groovy breakbeat tunes!

Jeff Hunter

Jeff Hunter, the host of the program, has been playing breakbeat music through out the Midwest USA for a decade. Having been on college radio in the late 90's, Jeff was fully involved in the radio broadcast experience and it's been calling to him ever since he left in Y2K. Jeff has now teamed up with the worlds premier breakbeat oriented internet radio station, www.NSBRadio.co.uk!
