

There is an opinion that the work of art begins to live its own life at the moment when it leaves the creator for the world. Everyone senses it in their own way and sees new meanings. There are also people who transform the original idea and create something completely new and beautiful on it. You know, we want to thank all these people.

We start this autumn with a collection of remixes for Affire's release «Games Are Not Fun». Our friends and colleagues have transformed the tracks and created new music. Deep, sensual, sometimes gloomy, now it definitely got out of our control. And we like it.
